Kyle is a man whose whole life is laid out before him. Engaged to his fiancée, Candace, he works as a dentist, knows that they'll settle down and have children, and all of life's decisions have already been figured out for him... and that is terrifying. One night, he sees an ad for billionaire Elron Branson's contest to travel to Mars on the maiden trip of his new Mars voyager. Unsure of the road ahead, Kyle sends in a submission video and, to his surprise, wins. When the dates of the rocket launch and wedding conflict, he decides to ditch his big day and head off to the red planet. This would all be great for him except the luxury accommodations are merely a facade, the other space travelers are insane, and all the space travelers get stranded on Mars with no way home.
